

The chair of the Nordic Council of Ministers invites you to a conference on

The role of Nordic municipalities and regions in the green transition

10-11 November 2015

Achieving the EU 2020, 2030 and 2050 energy and climate goals requires strong and focused energy development strategies for greening the energy systems. For long, the Nordic countries have put green growth high on the agenda.

The ambitious transition to green societies requires active contributions from all. Municipalities and regions are in a unique position to shape the transition to sustainable and climate-friendly energy solutions. They are closer to citizens and businesses, they are responsible for the land-use disposition and the planning in adjacent sectors, and they are owners of buildings and vehicles.

The conference will focus on the possibilities for Nordic municipalities and regions to contribute to green growth through sustainable solutions and strategic energy planning at local level.

Join us in Copenhagen to find out how your Nordic colleagues have chosen to deal with the green transition

Who should attend?

Decision-makers and energy planners from Nordic cities, municipalities, regions, businesses and NGOs looking to increase their effort in the field of green growth or who act as frontrunners in this field.

Why attend?

The conference will provide inspiration, concrete examples and knowledge on how to organise climate and energy initiatives based on lessons learned by others. Conference topics include:

- The global energy and climate challenge
- Sustainable transport solutions
- Green financing of energy efficiency initiatives
- The future role of district heating
- Local participations processes
- Fostering political commitment
- Energy mapping and scenario analysis
